

Paradox and Prophecy

Why the Study of Lived Catholicism Matters

The second online conference on Lived Catholicism 15-16 November 2021

Lived Catholicism is the study of Catholicism as lived across time and space. This year's conference will ask: what are the paradoxes of Lived Catholicism and how can it be authentically prophetic?

Plenary sessions by Michele Dillon, Valentina Napolitano, Clare Watkins, and Massimo Faggioli. Also featuring Robert Orsi, Tricia Bruce, Alana Harris, and Stephen Bullivant.

Call for Papers

Contributions are invited from theologians, ethnographers, sociologists, psychologists, human geographers, anthropologists, historians, and more. Deadline for proposals: 1 October 2021.

More Information

To see more information, to submit a paper proposal, or to register for the conference, please visit <https://livedcatholicism2.eventbrite.co.uk>

Durham
University

Centre for Catholic Studies

Conference organised in conjunction with the Department of Catholic Studies, Duquesne University

centreforcatholicstudies.co.uk
Catholic Theology in the Public Academy

E: ccs.admin@durham.ac.uk

T: +44 (0) 191 334 1656

Tw: @CCSDham #LivedCatholicism

